

Artists, Naturalists and Concerned Citizens come together for a Winter Celebration of Pure Water in the Central Catskills

February 11-13, 2011

SnowFlow is a collaborative event between several organizations interested in creativity, sustainability and organizational awareness. Our shared concerns regarding environmental issues and the increasing frequency of global catastrophes have focused our efforts into establishing ongoing collaborative projects that raise public awareness and bring together artists, activists, naturalists and concerned citizens into settings that inform, support and energize participants into making a difference.

SnowFlow will be held the weekend of February 11-13, 2011 at the Full Moon Resort. Located within the Catskill State Park and Forest Preserve, this region serves as both the main contributor to the New York City watershed and as the headwaters to the Delaware River, recently declared the “Nation's Most Endangered River.” The main initiative for SnowFlow is to bridge water rights activism between the Hudson and Delaware Valleys in relation to natural gas extraction, hydraulic fracturing and peak water.

The weekend events will combine outdoor activities, art, music and lively conversations to produce and document a variety of works focused on water in its most crystallized form – Snow! During the day, SnowFlowers will cascade down the slopes of nearby Belleayre Mountain and engage in parallel artistic interventions and snow shelter building competitions. Events will continue into the evening with a cocktail reception, dinner and a live broadcast on free103point9's WGXC of musical performances featuring Pauline Oliveros, Miguel Frascioni and Tianna Kennedy & Hannah Marcus.

Green Bus Tour, Powered by Love, will be providing transportation for 35 participants to and from New York City.

For an updated list of participating organizations, registration and pricing information and the schedule of events, please visit SnowFlow.org and for further information, contact Andrea Reynosa at AREynosa@SkyDogProjects.com or 845-252-3518.
