Wave Farm Board of Directors News

Wave Farm is thrilled to welcome Eliel Mamousette (pictured) to the Board of Directors. Based in Columbia County, New York, Eliel is Chief Technology Officer at Emerging Artist Network. Wave Farm also wishes to extend our most sincere gratitude to Andy Gunn who served on the Board from 2009 - 2018. Gunn will continue to work with Wave Farm as a consulting radio engineer. Thank you!

Wave Farm thanks you for your support.

Wave Farm remains tirelessly committed to making the airwaves a participatory medium. A pioneer of the Transmission Arts genre, Wave Farm programs provide access to transmission technologies and support artists and organizations that engage with media as an art form.

These activities are made possible, in part, from state and federal art grants, foundation support, earned income derived from studio rentals and special curatorial/consulting engagements, and from private support from individuals like you. Listeners, attendees, and collaborators support provides a critical piece to keeping Wave Farm programs afloat, and we are grateful to the many individuals who have shown their generosity past, present, and future.
